

6.1.3 - URBANIZATION

Analyze the changing urban and rural landscape by examining the location and expansion of major urban centers, the growth of cities linked by industry and trade, the development of cities divided by race, ethnicity, and class, resulting tensions among and within groups, and different perspectives about immigrant experiences in the urban setting.

Cities attracted industry and industry attracted people. Rural landscape were changing because the train had to stop to refuel on water steam engine indeed. That is why there is a big city in salt like city which that is out west .And the individual companies put in rail roads for money and for the good of the people and the government made it easier on the companies. Major urban centers like new york there were a lot of jobs and attraction and went there is jobs there is people. Transportation linked cities through the connection of resource to production to market. Middle poor , farther away new ever house middle class , Outskirts of the cities rich. To mean people in a small area and machine replaced farm hands two thirds of immigrants settled in cities, near other .people from the same country. Ethnic neighborhoods helped people .feel less isolated in their new homes. Two thirds of immigrant Live in the cities. Waterways are easy transport which created bigger cities.